

DARDEN SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

charlottesville, virginia

The Colgate Darden Graduate School of Business Administration on the north grounds of the University of Virginia is a premiere educational institution dedicated to training the executives of tomorrow. The facility encompasses five buildings and is constructed in revivalist Jeffersonian style, utilizing a large number of columns that wind their way around the facility. During the second phase of construction when it was time to bring in the best possible columns for the complex, Stromberg was brought in for the best results. Phase II of the project was completed in 2002.
